A study of how Australian novels dramatize the collision between the sensory terrain of the remembered suburb and the cultural critique of suburbia.

‘Suburban Space, the Novel and Australian Modernity’ investigates the interaction between suburbs and suburbia in a century-long series of Australian novels. It puts the often trenchantly anti-suburban rhetoric of Australian fiction in dialogue with its evocative and imaginative rendering of suburban place and time.

Readership
Scholars of Australian literature, urban studies and cultural geography, and literary and cultural studies more generally as well as readers in the secondary school market in Australia.
